What is HPRP and how is it funded?

The purpose of the Homelessness Prevention and Rapid Re-housing Program (HPRP) is to provide homelessness prevention assistance to households who would otherwise become homeless—many due to the economic crisis—and to provide assistance to rapidly re-house persons who are homeless as defined by section 103 of the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 11302). It is funded by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act legislation from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

What type of help can I receive?

Depending on need, temporary financial assistance and other needed services may be offered. To assist with housing stabilization, case management and other services will be offered to ensure no future reoccurrences of homelessness.
